FT. SHAFTER SOCIETY

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
FORT SHAFTER, Sept. 26.—Miss Mildred Bromwell was the luncheon guest of Miss Elizabeth Rosenbaum on Saturday last and the two young ladies afterwards joined a party that attended the polo game at Moanalua.

The Monday night at the 2nd Infantry men that have been turned into "Ladies' Night" have proven quite the most popular form of entertainment that has yet been devised for the garrison. Practically every body goes and the ten tables that participated in auction for a modest but well worth winning prize on the last occasion had a royal evening at the game. The special guests for the evening were Colonel and Mrs. J. B. McDonald, from headquarters in Honolulu. The prize winner for the evening's play proved to be Mrs. Roe from Kamehameha School, with no one else as second since her score distanced all competitors. Mrs. Roe carried off the handsome carved teak wood table that was provided by the hostesses for the evening. Those serving in that capacity on Monday night were Mrs. Frederick F. Black and Mrs. Clyde B. Parker. Those participating in the play were Colonel and Mrs. Atkinson, Major and Mrs. Lenihan, Major and Mrs. Smith, Captain and Mrs. Watkins, Captain and Mrs. Johnson, Captain and Mrs. Malone, Captain and Mrs. Hannum, Captain and Mrs. Lincoln, Captain and Mrs. Gibbs, Captain and Mrs. Malone, Lieut. and Mrs. Gee, Lieut. and Mrs. Fredendall, Lieut. and Mrs. Matheson, Lieut. and Mrs. Black, Lieut. and Mrs. Wright, Lieut. and Mrs. McAndrew, Mrs. Randolph, Mr. Payard Randolph, Captain Chamberlain, Miss Halloran, Miss Lenihan, Miss Catherine Lenihan, Lieutenants Loman, C. B. Greene, Rose, Hoffman, Foster and A. K. Lyman.

Information from Washington to the effect that Capt. Benjamin H. Watkins had been granted permission to remain on duty in Hawaii for an additional year of duty after the prescribed four years, was received by mail this week. This authority from the war department means that Captain and Mrs. Watkins will remain as residents of Fort Shafter until the middle of the year 1916, and may decide to apply for a further tour upon the completion of the additional year that has been granted them. This will be interesting news to the many friends of Captain and Mrs. Watkins, both in army life and in civilian circles of Honolulu. Lieutenant and Mrs. Ira Longnecker of the 2d Infantry also contemplate remaining at Fort Shafter for an additional year of duty, and they have been assured by the department that their request will be granted. Captain and Mrs. E. H. Cooke are two more of the 2d Infantry who have decided that Hawaii has charms that outweigh those of the mainland, and will make an additional year of it in these islands.

With the return of the regiment from the ten days in the field that took it around the island on a march, the garrison has once more resumed the appearance of an inhabited place. In addition the regiment have caused the tanks and parade to present a creditable appearance in general so that Fort Shafter is once more a place where visitors may visit with pleasure in the attractiveness of the surroundings. During the absence of the command from the post but little social life was attempted by those who remained behind. In fact a goodly part of the feminine portion of the officers' line were visitors at the Halewa hotel during the three days that the command was encamped at that point. The regiment returned from its march last Sunday at an hour shortly after noon, and practically the entire body of stay-at-homes was out to meet the likers and welcome them home to civilized surroundings and rest.

Lieut. Lindsay McD. Silvester, who has been visiting his family at Portsmouth, Virginia, is expected to return to Fort Shafter by the transport sailing from San Francisco on the 5th of October. Lieutenant Silvester was at first notified by the war department that no transportation for him would be available on the October boat, but it later developed that his "Manchu" status made it imperative that he be provided for by the department and accordingly a changed order was issued.

sued from Washington. The officer has been absent on a leave of absence for two months and will rejoin just in time to take part in the maneuvers that are scheduled for the regiment the latter part of next month.

The departure of Captain and Mrs. Franklin P. Jackson from Fort Shafter on Tuesday last for their new station, has left a vacancy in the social life at this post that will be indeed difficult to fill. Captain Jackson joins the 1st Infantry at Schofield Barracks, and he and Mrs. Jackson will be at home to their friends in the 1st Infantry garrison as soon as they are able to get their household goods arranged. The Jacksons were dinner guests of Major and Mrs. Ernest V. Smith on the night prior to their departure for Schofield, and were luncheon guests of Captain and Mrs. Charles S. Lincoln on the day that they bade goodbye to Fort Shafter and its people.

Word has been received that Miss Gertrude Malone and Mr. Walker Atkinson, who spent the summer with their respective families at Fort Shafter, have reached their destination at their respective schools in the States in safety and have without doubt entered in school work with all the expected vim and enthusiasm that follows after a delightful summer at home. Mr. Atkinson expects to receive an appointment as a cadet at West Point within the next two years and thus prepare to follow as the third generation of his family to serve as an officer in the army.

Mrs. Ernest V. Smith, whose departure from Fort Shafter last May created a social deficiency that was not filled until her return, was a home-coming passenger in the Sierra early in the week. Mrs. Smith spent the summer in California and the south, making a trip to her former home in Alabama, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Dorothy Jordan, who is now attending school near San Francisco. Mrs. Smith's return has been eagerly looked forward to by her many friends in both service and civilian society.

The fortnightly hop took place last evening and though but slimly attended, largely on account of the threatening weather, was nevertheless enjoyable. Lieutenant and Mrs. E. J. O'Hara of Fort De Russy and Captain Mudd of Fort Armstrong, were the only visitors from out of the post. Major and Mrs. Smith received the guests and Captains C. S. Gibbs and W. T. Hannum, were the efficient committee in charge of refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Hannum. Mrs. Lenihan and Mrs. Smith presided over the coffee and chocolate service for the supper.

Master Freddie Cook is host at a birthday party this afternoon at Lieut. Cook's quarters in the cantonment. All of the youngsters of the garrison are bidden to the party and have accepted to an individual. The list includes Frances Mathews, Ray Longnecker, Catherine Fredendall, Pamela McAndrew, Eleanor Wright, John Cooke, Jean Spencer, Lloyd Fredendall, Narcissa Watkins, Louise Johnson, Stuart Gee, Isabel Mathews, Shirley McAndrew and Jack Matheson.

Captain and Mrs. Clyde B. Parker of the 2d Infantry gave a delightful supper after the "Ladies' Night" at the mess on Monday last. Their guests for the evening were Colonel and Mrs. J. B. McDonald, Captain and Mrs. Paul B. Malone, Captain and Mrs. Geo. S. Gibbs, Major and Mrs. M. J. Lenihan, Captain and Mrs. Benjamin H. Watkins, Captain and Mrs. Walter H. Johnson and Captain D. W. Chamberlain.

Many of the ladies of the Fort Shafter garrison went to Fort Ruger yesterday, as the guests for auction bridge of Mrs. Wilmet E. Ellis, wife of Lieut. Col. Ellis, commanding at Ruger. Among those who participated in the entertainment provided by Mrs. Ellis were Mrs. M. J. Lenihan, Mrs. Ernest V. Smith, Mrs. Paul B. Malone, Mrs. Charles S. Lincoln, Mrs. C. B. Parker and Mrs. George S. Gibbs.

Mrs. George H. Jamerson, greatly to the regret of her friends, is confined to her home with an indisposition that has continued now for several days and has necessitated that she remain under a physician's care. Her illness while not severe has caused Mrs. Jamerson to remain in her home and take no part in social matters for the past week.

Letters received from Miss Bessie Edwards and Miss Margaret Porter who left for the states on the Manchu, tell of the enjoyable trip over sea, but add that they both miss Honolulu very much and greatly hope to return thereto at an early date.

Lieutenant N. W. Campanole will occupy the quarters vacated in the cantonment by Captain and Mrs. Jackson, where he will set up his own establishment. Lieutenant Campanole has hitherto been quartered in the bachelor mess building.

Miss Halloran is the guest of her brother, Lieut. George M. Halloran, for an extended visit in the garrison. Miss Halloran accompanied her brother upon his return to the islands by the transport from leave arriving here on the 12th.

Captain and Mrs. B. H. Watkins will entertain two tables of guests at auction at the next "Ladies' Night" at the regimental mess and will afterwards take their guests to their hospitable quarters for supper.

Captain and Mrs. W. R. Gibson entertained at dinner on Friday evening. Their guests were Colonel and Mrs. B. W. Atkinson, Captain and Mrs. B. H. Watkins and Captain and Mrs. C. S. Lincoln.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Herman Oelrichs were what was described as the most beautiful costume seen at the Newport Horse Show matinee yesterday. It was of a delicate shade of pink voile, figured in black, draped over black satin and finished with a mauve girdle. Her small black hat had a small white plume.

The weather was so cool that coats and furs were necessary for those who sat through the session. Mrs. Joseph Widener wore a smart costume of cream white cloth, the skirt being draped from left to right over an underdress of fine white lace. The girdle and sash were of dull pink, and her large, flat brimmed black velvet hat was trimmed with black agouties.

Mr. William Nelson Mayne has returned to Baltimore after having spent several days here with Ambassador and Mrs. George Thomas Mayne. The young daughter of Ambassador and Mrs. Mayne, Miss Helen Mayne, did not accompany her parents when they sailed yesterday on the Mauretani for Petrograd, but will remain with her aunt, Miss Flora Dowie, at the Mayne home on Connecticut avenue.

Secretary Lane has joined Mrs. Lane at their summer place at Essex on Lake Champlain, N. Y., for a short time. Their young daughter, Miss Nancy Lane, has gone to the Adirondacks to spend September at a girls' camp. Mrs. Lane and the children expect to return to this city the first part of October to reopen their home for the winter.

The Russian ambassador and Mme. Bakmetef expect to remain at Newport throughout this and next month, according to their present plans, as announced last night by the former.

Brig. Gen. Theodore Schwan, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Schwan, who have been in the Bar since July 1, left for this city yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hilt have arrived at Bretton Woods, N. H., to join Mrs. Hilt's brother, David Elkins, and his party.
